

WE NOMINATE

Shirley Davis, 37-years old and the sixth headmistress of Miss Fine's School, who this week, as her school completes its 50th Anniversary Celebration, rounds out her first 14 years in secondary education. The daughter of Darius Alton Davis, Associate General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. World's Committee, and the youngest member of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls when she took office here in 1943, Miss Davis personifies—as well as any person in her field—the qualities of leadership the independent school must have if it is to continue to play a vital role in American education.

Hating the word "snobbish," and believing that a basic responsibility of teaching is inoculating one's students with a genuine desire "to do something for others," Miss Davis has quarterbacked Miss Fine's return to a position of eminence among New Jersey secondary schools. It is important that enrollment has jumped from 143 in 1943 to 245 in 1950. It is equally significant that the teachers' salary scale has been broadened, that a long overdue teachers' pension fund has been inaugurated, that a faculty-elected member of the faculty now sits with the school's board of trustees.

Miss Davis' education was essentially "a living experience in getting along with anyone." Born in Istanbul, she was weaned on Turkish. She attended kindergarten in Paris, studied in Swiss schools and was the first student enrolled in the Geneva's International School, the model for the United Nations School. While she came to know Western Europe and spoke three languages, she failed to master American history and completed her preparation in this country before entering Swarthmore with the Class of 1935.

Stranded in New York with $25, after hopes for her first job had gone glimmering, she made the rounds of agencies and finally landed a sales post in a department store. Two weeks later she was a section manager, directing a force of 30 and "coping with realities I never knew existed." The following year, firm in her conviction that "teaching was it," she accepted an apprentice's position. A year on a fellowship at Bryn Mawr, an advanced degree in modern languages and five years at the Baldwin School, where she taught French and directed social service projects, preceded the Princeton bid.

For emphasizing the individual's obligations to the community and thereby making the community more conscious of all the independent school stands for; for looking upon an hour of teaching as "the most rejuvenating thing I know of;" for blending the best of past and present in building for Miss Fine's and for Princeton's future; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for Survey by The Sovereign. "... Sixteen people share four small bedrooms and one living room. The bedrooms are so crowded that when the family goes to bed, they take off their shoes downstairs and place them on the table—it seems that 32 shoes invariably get mixed up and lost in the general melee."

This, The Nassau Sovereign writes in a 4,000-word article investigating slum areas in what it calls "Princeton's Backyard," is typical of conditions in the six blocks between John and Witherspoon Streets, running from Jackson Street north to Birch Avenue. To uncover material for its survey, The Sovereign, now in its second decade as a magazine on the Princeton University campus, assigned Paul Bator and Howard MacAyeal to research that required three months to complete.

The authors find it "surprising that such conditions exist in a town where wallets are fat, the pretty sections so famous and the community pride so overwhelming." In sharp contrast to such conditions elsewhere in Princeton, "the Witherspoon Street area," the article charges, "has become practically a ghetto within the town."

"With such conditions, the housing problem evidently becomes a vicious circle," the authors continue. "Existence is not a matter of choice, and if people have to live in a shack or a fire trap, at least it counts as a roof over their heads. How long it will continue to remain over their heads is a question answerable only in terms of sagging beams, dry-rot and the ever-present threat of consuming fire."

Other living conditions which the investigating undergraduates found: Six people, including four small children, sharing one small cubicle. "One of the children recently had measles, and the other three, kept from school by quarantine, had to stay home all day; one of them was forced to share the bed of the sick child."

"A couple with three children living in one room which serves as a passageway to their landlord's quarters. No central heating . . . a coal stove at the head of the stairs presents a fire-hazard, being liable to burn the children in the tiny space . . . the bathroom downstairs is in reality a kind of porch, which is unheated; as a result the children could not bathe during the winter cold . . ."

"One house tenanted by 24 people . . . divided into ten separate families . . . living in 12 rooms"

"One back yard, not far from the wealthy Bayard Lane homes, is the dumping place for the slops of a family that has no toilet facilities."

Tracing the history of the area for the past 20 years, the various surveys made to check on conditions; the two low-cost housing projects that were constructed and were restricted to white tenants; the flash fire that snuffed out four lives on Christmas Eve; and recording efforts to better conditions. The Sovereign concludes:

"Credit must be given to those citizens in Princeton who have early recognized and long pressed for improvement in the problem of housing. The League of Women Voters, the Family Service Bureau and the Housing Committee have worked faithfully for such solutions as might eventually enable the attitude of civic pride to cover all sections of the town."

"If they have learned anything, perhaps it is that to do something—Continued on Page 3 is not to do enough. The facts are on the face of some grade school kid digging id a dirty back yard.

"If Princeton is satisfied that it is doing everything possible, then perhaps it is confusing an enlightened self-interest with a social consciousness. Perhaps, even, it is confusing self-interest with enlightened bigotry.

"Princeton is not and never has been an average town. It should not, and cannot, complacently afford average slum conditions. It is a town of big homes, big pocket-books and apparently small hearts; and there, perhaps, lies the real root of the matter."

Choir College Plans. Partial occupancy of the Lambert estate by next Fall is planned by the Westminster Choir College. The 32-room home which the college acquired will be used to house the Columbus (Ohio) Boys Choir School, which will consolidate with Westminster. Some 50 students and five faculty members from the school will come here, its grades serving as a preparatory course for the college.

The school and some of the college's post-graduate classes will be conducted in the former Lambert home. When a student union and commons, as well as eight dormitories, are built by the Fall of 1951, the entire college will move. Scheduled for later completion—all in Colonial style—are a chapel, auditorium, gymnasium and library.

Sale Starts. Pages seven and eight of this issue of Town Topics announce a store-wide sale just under way at Liggett's Drug Store, 98 Nassau Street. To permit expansion of the store's merchandise in the drug and allied fields, the luncheon counter has been removed and many additional items are being stocked for the first time.

For ten days starting June 1, prices have been greatly reduced and many articles are being offered at cost or below (for examples, see the two coupons in the center of the advertisement.) The store is under the supervision of Harry P. Petrozzini, who has been its manager for the past 17 years.

Backward Thinking. Last Winter, 605 idealistic-minded sophomores signed a petition announcing their refusal to join any upperclass eating club if every member of their class was not extended an invitation to do so. Although its merits were hotly debated by undergraduates and alumni for weeks, the plan worked; 100 percent membership was attained in contrast to many a year when several dozen men are passed by.

Last week, the Graduate Inter-Club Committee, whose members formulate policy that is handed down to the individual clubs for approval, revealed a plan that was the direct opposite of both idealism and democracy. It adopted a proposal that made ineligible for club membership any sophomore signing a petition asking for 100 percent membership in the future. Irrespective of the merits of the invitations-for-all program, the Interclub Committee had amazed many a Princetonian by taking a stand that was basically opposed to the concept of freedom of speech, one of the principles on which this nation is presumably founded.

Belt-Making Set. One question we've heard asked innumerable times by desperate women: "Where in this town can I find someone to make a belt to match the dress I've just finished?" The answer now, thanks to Clayton's, is "Make it yourself—simply, quickly and inexpensively." This you can do with a brand new set that contains complete instructions and materials for making a belt which can be adjusted to cover sizes 12 to 40.

Four necessary items are in the package: 1) an adjustable, coverable buckle; 2) ready-to-sew belt packing; 3) ready-cut leatherette buckle backing; 4) adhesive fabric to cover buckle. All you need to supply is the fabric from which your dress is made and a little spare time; and for only 79 cents you'll have a belt that not only enhances the looks of your dress, but washes and cleans as well.

"Pinwae" Pincurl Permanent. Having listened in on many a discussion of the merits and disadvantages of home-applied permanents, this new offering along those lines sounds good to us by virtue of the five new features which "Pinwae" boasts.

It's a brand new, rapid, simplified method with the following advantages: 1) no resetting is necessary after neutralizing, and rinsing is done with curls pinned up, so, when dry, the hair is ready to be combed out and "worn"; 2) the curls can be set with bobble or hair pins, which makes the job quicker, easier and uninkily; 3) if you can pin-curl your own hair, no assistance is necessary; 4) the "Pinwae" solution will not discolor hair; 5) no objectionable after-odors will linger in the hair.

In the package with the solution and neutralizer comes a folder which not only gives detailed directions, but has sketches of various hair styles showing how to achieve them with the "Pinwae." When it's all done, the makers say it should last several months, and it will "be easy to manage and just the way you want it right from the start." Doesn't it sound good to you, too? "Pinwae" is $1.98 at Thorne's.

"Turbanets." Also at Thorne's, also to do with feminine heads are these new "Turbanets," inspired by "South Pacific." We can't be quite sure whether they're based on something actually worn in the show (there was a variety of headgear sported by the nurses), or whether it's just because of their gay prints and South Sea island look. Anyway, they're something newish along head-covering lines, and they are attractively versatile.

The "Turbanets" consist of a wide print band attached to a net which can be worn in a number of different ways, depending on what "look" you wish to achieve. They can be casual for a housewife by merely tying the scarf in a bow or folding it under on the top of your head.

They can be made rather glamorous for outdoor parties by tying —Continued on Page 9

Sports in Short

Red Hot Tigers. Whether or not the Eastern Bow-ball League title comes to Princeton again this month, there can be no denying the fact that the Tiger nine was the hottest team in the East throughout the month of May. During that time it won seven out of seven; rose from fourth to first in the league race; and upended a powerful Rutgers aggregation, thereby ranking as victor over both the Scarlet, which was awarded the district two bid to the national intercollegiate championships in Omaha, Nebraska, and N.Y.U., the runner-up.

A record 17 seven defeats against a dozen opponents kept the Nassau nine from consideration this year.
But with Dave Sisler (see below) and Bob Unger coming along next Spring to supplement the staff of Eugene, Alvin, and Brightman and Frank Reichel, it is unlikely that the Orange and Black will be stopped often in 1951.

Despite an inevitable bit of loose play in the Penn and Rutgers games Friday and Saturday on the part of all three teams involved, the action that unfolded was close to college baseball at its best.
Against the Quakers, Emerson Dickman's team moved out to a 5-0 lead, was eventually tied at 6-all when three errors proved Ray Chi-rurgi's undoing after some solid hurling on his part, and then staged a ninth-inning rally for the third time in a fortnight.

Eye-opening relief pitching by sophomore Harry Brightman was the day's headline. He took over in the eighth with none out, the bases loaded and the score 6-3. One run crossed the plate on a somewhat dubious decision at home on an attempted force play; however, a grounder to Fairchild nipped the next tally at the plate and Brightman then fanned the two lead-off batters to end the round.

Larry Becker's sky-high triple to left center opened the bottom of the ninth, after Brightman had retired Penn's power in order. The southpaw sophomore then whacked a single through the drawn-in infield and Princeton had its sixth league win in seven starts.

Rutgers brought its record of eight straight, 16 wins and a tie against two defeats to University Field on Saturday. With George Case, former Washington Senator, opposing Emerson Dickman, late of the Boston Red Sox, in a coaches' duel, the visitors set sophomore Tom Foster to the mound in search of his seventh in a row without a defeat. Princeton picked Frank Reichel, and Foster picked up his first loss.

The Nassau Junior came up with the best performance of his career, hurling eight innings in which he scattered seven hits and walked no one. Tiger misuses set up both the runs that gave the Scarlet a 2-1 lead.

With one down in the eighth, Foster walked John Emery, pinch hitting for Reichel, and Jack Reydel, who has developed into one of the best lead-off batters Princeton has had in a decade. This set the stage for Ed Irwin, the scrappy third baseman driving an 0-and-2 pitch far over the center fielder's head for a triple. When Brightman again set the side down in order in the ninth, Irwin's lead meant the game.

Yale at New Haven this Saturday and Dartmouth at Hanover next Thursday must both be beaten if the Orange and Black is to retain its league title. Army stopped Navy in 15 innings last weekend to gain a 7-2 record for the year. Ties are supposed to be played off, but

News of the Theatres

THE PLAYHOUSE
 No Sad Songs for Me (Thurs.- Sat.) unfolds Margaret Sullivan's philosophy for dying when, happily married and mother of a small daughter, she learns cancer will prove fatal in a few months' time.
 A Hollywood first on the subject, it may serve as a warning to many a woman; as a film, it relieves its morbid theme with restrained acting and well-placed lighter touches but still ranks perilously close to being a straight soap opera.

Conspirator (Sun.-Tues.) casts Robert Taylor as a British major who marries an American girl (Elizabeth Taylor) and continues his career as a Communist spy.
 Their resultant relationship is un-interestingly followed to an outcome of attempted murder and suicide; uninspired acting is no help to the shallow story.

Love That Brute (Wed.-Sat.), a remake of the 1941 picture, "Tall, Dark and Handsome," plays Chicago gang warfare for laughs. Paul Douglas heads one mob that constantly feuds with the tough crowd operating on the other side of the river, whose leader is Cesar Romero. Jean Peters, Keenan Wynn and Joan Davis are others who head a good cast in a well-paced picture that has its share of humor.

THE GARDEN
Comanche Territory (Thurs.- Sat.) packs everything into a cowboy-and-Indian story: treacherous white men, raiding parties, am-bushes, war dances, stolen treaties and picturesque scenery. With Maureen O'Hara and MacDonald Carey.

Johnny Eager (Mon.-Tues.), released eight years ago, is back for another whirl as a gangster melodrama, this one played straight.
 There's a good deal of action in the picture, which features Robert Taylor, Lana Turner, Van Heflin and Edward Arnold.

Temptation Harbor (Wednesday-Thursday), a British melodrama, tells of a railway signalman manning a tower near the waterfront who witnesses a murder and, instead of identifying the killer to the police, makes off with a suitcase full of money for which the crime was committed. He shortly tangles with both the murderer seeking the loot and a carnival girl (Simone Simon) seeking romance. Mystery and suspense help hold the interest.

The Great Rupert (Fri.-Sat.) is a trick squirrel which benefits a down-and-out ex-vaudevillian (Jimmy Durante) in definite and amusing fashion throughout a light-hearted, frequently screwball story. It all starts when Mr. Du-rante's stingy landlord banks considerable cash in the renovated garage where both Rupert and the Durante family live. The squirrel discards the cash in his secondstory hunt for edibles and the greenbacks literally float into the Durante household. A happy-go-lucky, family-type film.

IT'S NEW TO US

them around your head and then down into a scarf effect around your neck. There are other styles for top-down motoring and such—you can think of them as well as we can; there are also pictures to give you ideas. They come in a galaxy of colors and cost $1.50 including tax (don't ask us why there is one.)

Lansing "Slik-Toys." New in Princeton, to the best of our knowledge, are these workable scale reproductions of farm machines in aluminum with rubber tires. Not only do they seem solid, unlike many metal, "wheeled" toys that fall apart almost immediately, but they are quite fascinating in their reality.

The machines come individually or in sets. In the former category there's a bulldozer, material moving unit grader and crane, all of which work. Prices, respectively, are $2.50, $2.75, $1.25 and $4.75.

In the sets there are two, one a tractor set which includes five units, the other a small farm set with plow, mower, planter, drag and disc. The tractor set (it's obvious we can't identify the five units, or we would, but your young son undoubtedly can) is $3.75; the small set, $1.50. In the sets, too, everything works, such as the mower which mows away in businesslike style while the wheels go round. They're at Zavelle's.

Cotton Jersey Blouses. We use the word "blouses" advisedly as opposed to the "crew" or "T" shirt classification that usually covers cotton jersey toppers of this sort. It's the unusual touch supplied by plique Peter Pan collars and cuffs on the short sleeves that makes them, to us, deserve the appellation of blouses. Because of the crisp white collars and cuffs they have a slightly dressier look that makes them wearable on occasions other than just sporting ones.

They have wide, fitted waistbands so that they can be worn on the outside of skirts, and come in navy, yellow, cherry and powder blue for only $1.89. At Bailey's Department Store, 14 Witherspoon.

Incidentally, it is with mentioning to "coming attraction" minded ladies that Bailey's has a new line of cotton maternity dresses which goes by that name. The dresses are simple, attractive and inexpensive at $3.98 to $7.95.

WARNING TO TELEVISION AND FM set owners. Is your installation protected against lightning? Don't be in doubt—call us for a survey and estimate. We use only U.S. Bureau of Standards approved systems. Call 814, UNIVERSITY RADIO ELECTRIC, D. D. Richards.

SUPER-SIX 1949 Hudson convertible, Ruby Red outside, same color genuine leather seats; 10,000 miles, fully equipped, directional signals, undercoated, simeonized. $2,198. Call 3359.

PROTECT YOUR HAIR with professional care. Now is the time to get your natural looking, lasting permanent wave. Esther's Beauty Salon, 176 Nassau Street, Tel. 78.

EXCHANGE STUDENT seeks summer employment, preferably with traveling family. Contact Foreign Student Advisor, State Teachers College, Trenton, N. J.

ATTRACTIVELY FURNISHED HOUSE for rent for July and August at beautiful, natural mountain lakes. Five bedrooms, two baths, electrically heated, hot water, electric refrigerator and stove. $700; fortnightly period for $225. 54 miles from Princeton. Call K. F. Benedict, 408-R.

the service teams have a reputation for ducking moral obligations of this nature. In each of the last two years, the title has been decided because Army and Navy would not reschedule rained-out contests with various teams that had a chance to finish first.

Fast Freshman. It was well back in the football season last Fall when Princeton's baseball faithful began speculating on what Dave Sisler, son of the famous St. Louis Browns' slugger, would do as a pitcher here. If he doesn't listen to pro offers, he's got a long ways to go at Old Nassau but even the first season makes pretty good reading.

He worked the first four innings of the Lawrenceville game, blanking the schoolboys and fanning five of the first seven batters to face him. Then he went the distance against a good Lafayette freshman team, winning 3-2 and fanning 14. He batted in the cleanup spot and hit a home run.

The following week, he pitched against Hill School. The 18-year-old tossed a no-hitter, the first recorded by a Princeton freshman in nine years. He struck out 16, and hit another home run. Next time out, he won his fourth game when he set the Rutgers freshmen down with five hits. The final score was 8-2 and he struck out ten more to raise his total to 45 in 31 innings.

The strong Seton Hall freshmen were the next opponent, and the support that day was not too good. Errors accounted for four of the five runs Seton Hall made but the Tigers' yearlings came up with six. Dave fanned 14 that day.

A hard-hitting Yale freshman outfit was the season's final foe last month. Sisler scattered five safeties, fanned six—to make his total 65—and spun a neat 3-0 shutout. In the seventh, he came to bat with the score 0-0 and the bases full. A perfect squeeze bunt brought in not one but two runs, and Dave carried the third across personally a few minutes later.

The nine additional innings of scoreless pitching gave him a total of 49 during which he allowed only two earned runs, giving him an average in that department of 0.37. That, more than anything else, is indicative of how good he may one day be.

Champions Again. Princeton High School's all-conquering track team rolled to its third straight Group III Central Jersey championship Saturday at Asbury Park, compiling 81½ points to 37½ for second-place North Plainfield. Somerville, South River, Long Branch and Bound Brook trailed.

Individual victors for the Blue and White were Bill Hogarty, who set a meet record with a 4:40.8 mile; Jim Raikes, Jim Scudder and Jim Granberry in the high hurdles, 100 and javelin, respectively; and Joe Stonaker, whose 2:02.3 half-mile was not only a meet and Princeton High School record but a twilight schoolboy performance.

Buster Thomas placed in three events to total 9½ points and take

They look alike-but

ALL insurance policies look very much alike but the real test is the service that you receive after you have had a loss, or an accident. Wise property owners are "company conscious" — they look into the stability and reputation of the company back of their policies.

top scoring honors for Irwin Weiss' fine team. The State championships this weekend conclude an already highly successful season.
Two More Triumphs. Hopewell and Hightstown became Princeton's most recent victims in the Twin-M League, the Tigertowners holding second place but still looking for a way to beat the pace-setting Belle Mead nine. Bill Wilshire hurled effectively against Hopewell, Joe Coffey and Joe Petrone leading the attack that broke up the 2-2 tie and brought a 6-2 triumph.
Dave Ogonofski, who graduates from Hun this weekend and is heading for Rutgers, topped Hightstown last Friday night, 3-2. Tom Brophy's entry filed the bases in the last of the seventh when trailing 2-1 and Dick Coffee's single sent the tying and winning runs across. Monday's game at Hightstown was rained out. Rocky Hill will be on Brokaw Field this Thursday at 6:15, with the team going to Pennington next Monday and meeting Belle Mead at home a week from Thursday. That will be the big one.

You Never Really Appreciate Your HOSPITAL until a dear one needs a bed

NO MORE bitter experience exists than that hopeless, empty feeling that comes when some one near and dear needs the help that only a hospital can give and they say, "SORRY . . . no beds."

The current Building Fund Campaign of Princeton Hospital is designed to prevent this condition.

$135,000 More to Go!

Let's all get behind Curtis McGraw, George Conover and John Donoho and help them finish "Princeton's Number 1 Job."

GIVE . . . GIVE . . . GIVE . . . if we fail Princeton Hospital now, it cannot help you and yours when really vital help may be needed.

If you did not give yet . . . GIVE NOW!

If you gave before . . . GIVE AGAIN!
